DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Centanni (4,177,935) in view of Chodorowski (3,228,710).

Centanni discloses a method of reducing container folding resistance, comprising forming a container blank having a panel (Figs. 3 and 4; via 40), said panel including a score line (Fig. 4; via fold lines 44, 46, 48, 70, and 74); interposing a relief region (Fig. 4; via slots 76 and 78) along the score line (70 and 74), wherein the score line is aligned with the relief region, see for example (Fig. 4, score lines 70 and 74 is aligned with the relief region 76 and 78). Centanni does not disclose that the relief region including a plurality of arranged cuts lie substantially transverse the score line. However, Chodorowski discloses a similar method comprising that the relief region including a plurality of arranged cuts lie substantially transverse the score line (Figs. 2A, 2B, and 6-9; via slits/perforations 16, 16b, 27, 29, 30, 30'' along fold lines) to reduce the tendency of gussets or creases.

Therefor, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified Centanni's method by having relief region including a plurality of arranged cuts lie substantially transverse the score line, as suggested by Chodorowski, in order to reduce the tendency of gussets or creases and provide an improved form of perforation or slit to eliminates the formation of gussets or creases and to maintain the strength of the paper before the first fold is made (column 1, lines 36-39 and 54-57).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1 has been considered but is moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
